

Shine On

Words and Music by Jan Garrett & JD Martin

When in the course of human kindness, it becomes clear the time has come
To willingly set aside our blindness, and see the world as one.

Nobody here has yet forgotten all of the joys we've ever known
And following freely what we feel, we're finding our way home.

Shine on....Shine on
Steady on....Steady on

We, the People, come together, bringing the best of who we are
All we remember, tough and tender, leading with our hearts

The future is looking back with love, encouraging every step we take Guiding us through the darkest times, and blessing us on our way

Shine on....Shine on
Steady on....Steady on

*Protecting what is gentle, Protecting what is wild
Connecting what is living in every woman, man, and child
A joyful revelation, the hope comes shining through
In the silver singing river, in the rising of the moon*

Shine on....Shine on
Steady on....Steady on

Where are the ones we've lost forever, leaving a longing in our souls
Gathering all this love together, we're setting our sights for home

Every road we've ever traveled, all of the wonders near and far
All of these gifts come 'round again, and bring us to where we are

Shine on....Shine on	Protecting what is gentle, Protecting what is wild
Steady on....Steady on	Connecting what is living
	In every woman, man, and child
Shine on....Shine on	A joyful revelation, the hope comes shining through
Steady on....Steady on	In the silver singing river, in the rising of the moon

When in the course of human kindness, it becomes clear the time has come.....
